

OUTLINE OF THE JAPAN GAS ASSOCIATION 2020

THE JAPAN GAS ASSOCIATION

Outline

The Japan Gas Association (JGA), an organization of city gas utilities, contributes to the economy and people's welfare in Japan by promoting the sound development of the general gas utility business as well as the major gas related projects and gas pipeline projects and by coordinating the stable supply energy supply, ensuring safety and addressing environmental issues.

Japan's gas business started in Yokohama in 1872. The Imperial Gas Association, Japan's first association of gas utilities, was founded in 1912 at a time when the number of gas utilities increased rapidly in the post-war boom after the Russo-Japanese War. After many changes, the Japan Gas Association was founded in 1947 and received its charter as an incorporated association in 1952. Subsequently, in 2011, JGA received its charter as a general incorporated association.

History

30 May 1912	The Imperial Gas Association	Founded
15 Oct. 1927	The Imperial Gas Association	Reorganized as a corporate association
11 Dec. 1944	The Gas Industry Association	Due to economic controls during the Second World War, the Imperial Gas Association was reorganized into an industry controlling body named the Gas Industry Association.
18 Aug. 1945	The Gas Control Association	Since another industrial association was already using the name "Control Association," the Gas Industry Association applied for permission to change its name to the Gas Control Association. This was granted after the end of the war.
19 Feb. 1946	The Japan Gas Industry Association	With the end of hostilities and abolition of the Key Industry Association Law, the functions of the Gas Control Association were terminated and the Japan Gas Industry Association was established.
15 Oct. 1947	The Japan Gas Association	In August 1947, the Japan Gas Industry Association was ordered by GHQ to close down. The Japan Gas Association was founded as a voluntary group for the exchange of goodwill and information among city gas utilities.
7 June 1952	The Japan Gas Association	During the post-war economic recovery, the Japanese city gas industry faced various problems. In order to solve these problems, the above organization was reorganized as a corporate association under Article 34 of the Civil Code. This association has continued to the present.
1 Apr. 2011	The Japan Gas Association	In December 2008, the law concerning the charitable corporation system was introduced, requiring incorporated associations to redefine their corporate status within five years. In 2011, the JGA chose to become a general incorporated association to gain greater flexibility, including the common benefit business as well as its traditional charitable business.

Organization and Administration

The supreme decision-making body of the JGA is the General Meeting, to which all full members are invited. The Council and the Chairperson and Vice Chairperson Meeting discuss and decide important matters of the JGA, as the executive body under the General Meeting. Committees study issues in specific fields.

Secretariat

Our secretariat is composed of 5 divisions. Under the Senior Managing Director (Secretary General), the organization supports the activities of the committees, and acts as a liaison with regulatory authorities or other related industries.
